Booz Allen Hamilton is a global strategy and technology consulting firm that works with private and public sector clients worldwide. The firm is unique in both its independence from vendors and in its equal focus on both business and technology. Booz Allen combines deep industry insights with differentiated functional expertise to support clients from strategy development through to implementation.

Booz Allen has more than 17,000 employees on six continents, including a strong local presence in Australia and New Zealand with offices in Canberra, Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Auckland and Wellington. In Australia Booz Allen has been consulting to the largest corporations, government and other public agencies and institutions for nearly 20 years across strategic leadership, organisational change, information technology, economic and business analysis, assurance and resilience, and operations.

Booz Allen has a long history of acting for government and is uniquely placed to fill the Lead Advisor role to the Office of Access Card. The firm has considerable experience leading the most advanced e-Health / Social Welfare access card programs worldwide. The firm has been involved in over 25 smartcard projects globally, including programs in the US, Germany and Italy. The programs supported amount to some of the largest, most complex and nationally significant in the world.

Booz Allen brings together a powerful, highly skilled team with the breadth and depth of skills required to support the program from start to finish. This team includes local experts in business and technology architecture, customer experience, operational process improvement, fraud and claims management, as well as global experts direct from European e-Health / Social Welfare card programs, together with experts from the US in Public Key Infrastructure, information assurance, and smartcard technologies and standards.

Booz Allen is excited by the opportunity to work with the Office of Access Card on this important initiative.
